

Special Situations Investment Analyst – VP/Director-level

Our client, a top-performing credit fund are seeking to add a talented special situations investment professional to their growing team in London. This is a key hire for the fund, following several years of strong performance and AuM growth.

This individual will sit within a highly talented investment team to focus on investing in both public and private special situations opportunities in Europe. The ideal candidate will therefore be able to demonstrate the following attributes:

- Origination, analysis and execution of special situations investment opportunities on a pan-European basis
- In-depth knowledge of the high yield, distressed debt, and special situations in public and private markets
- Strong communication in presenting investment/trade ideas to senior individuals and the investment committee
- Using a developed sourcing network to originate investment ideas - amongst the restructuring firms, advisors, law firms, bank desks, etc.

Whilst our client would be seeking an individual at the Vice President-level and above, they do not wish to exclude any talented more junior candidates that may be able to demonstrate the above abilities. This will therefore suit an investment analyst who has gained experience within a similar special situations strategy – or indeed, a background in opportunistic credit, distressed debt, or capital solutions investing.

This is a fantastic opportunity for a driven professional to join a highly regarded investment team.
